BALTIMORE'S RESUMPTION OF THE LEAD-THIS WEEK'S PLAY.

PENNANT.

The race for the National League pennant is as Baltimore teams are leading their competitors a the Sand Creek Bridgion course, under a cloudless lively chase indeed. The New-York and Cleveland are making frantic efforts to catch up, but of the two the Giants' chances are by far the rosier, for the local team seems reasonably certain to make a better record than the Spiders or any team behind Cleveland during the remainder of the sea-

The Orioles have recovered from the set back sustained at the hands of the New-York and Boston teams recently, and Hanlon's men are again in the lead in the race for the championship. The Orioles are the baseball wonder of the age, for every critic in the country, with possibly one or two exceptions, has predicted that the Orioles would be back in the bunch long before this. Every indication points to a close and exciting battle between the leaders for the rest of the season. Giants' chances are still bright, as the local team has the best of it from the pitchers' point of view, and good pitchers will prove an important factor in the race up the homestretch.

The Giants did much better work last week, winning four of the six games played to a finish. The game with Chicago on Saturday will be played off on Wednesday. Anson's Colts keep up their good work, and they led the League last week by win-ning five of the six games played, a better record than the long-limbed athletes are likely to make this week, by the way. The Philadelphia and Baltimore teams came next with four victories and one defeat each. The Boston and Washington teams won three of the five games played. The Bridegrooms won only two of the five, while the Pittsburg aggregation did not win a game during

Fourz expects his Brooklyn team to do much better work from now on, for in Kennedy, Stein, Lucid and Daub he has four pitchers who ought to give a good account of themselves. The Brooklyn team is a good batting one, and with closer attentions to team work and a little better base running Fourz's men should have nothing to fear from any team from the West.

In the race for the pennant Baltimore leads with 61 victories and 35 defeats, Boston having one more victory and one more defeat. Baltimore's net advantage is three points. New? York has three less victories than Baltimore and four more defeats, and is forty-one points behind the Orioles and thirty-eight behind Boston. Both the Philadeiphia and Brooklyn teams nave a good chance to flash ahead of Cleveland and Pittsburg in the next two weeks. The Senators and Colonels are having a desperate battle for tail end honors, with the chances in favor of Washington. The record to date is as follows:

will be interesting. The Eastern teams have by far the better of it to-day, having won a total of 132 games from the Western nines, to 8 for the less favored section. Not one of the Western teams has been able to break even to date.

Of the Eastern teams the champions have done the best work winning twenty-seven and losing ten games, a remarkable record. The Baltimore and New-York teams have done almost as well, Baltimore winning twenty-six and losing eleven games, while the Giants have won twenty-six and lost twelve. The Washington team is the only Eastern nine to lose more games than it has won. The record:

WON BY THE BUFFALO NINE.

iffalo, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Three home runs visibly saisted the "Bisons" in winning to-day's game before 5,000 people, and Boyd, Urquhart and Vickery were the ones who sent the ball over the fence.

Only one error was made during the game, a fum-ble of a grounder by Collins, and that did not cut any figure in the score. Consecutive hitting was what won for the home team. Score:

WON BY THE COLORADO WHEELMEN. Denver, Col., Aug. 19.—The twenty-five-mile road race was started at 10:07 o'clock this morning over sky. There were nearly 100 entries, and there was the greatest enthusiasm manifested. Thousands of wheelmen lined the route and many more in coaches followed the riders closely. The road lay along th Union Pacific tracks. The riders strung along the road for the first two miles from the start, forming a long line of wheels and rainbow colors. Murphy, in light blue, led the four other scratch men. There was a great deal of disappointment over the failure of Callaham. Zeigier, Van Wagner, Hamilton and other fast men to start. The visitors in the crowd pinned their faith to Murphy, Gardner, Bird and Bainbridge, the scratch men while the Denver people were sanguine that Banks, with his ten minutes handicap, and Renshaw, Gerwing and Trask, who were in the seven and six minute classes, would render a good account of themselves.

The first mile was reeled off in the teeth of a brisk breeze. L. H. Dodson, Il minutes, of Canyon City, Col., won the race; time 1:22.28. Bertie Banks, 19 minutes, Denver, was second, and W. E. Enright, of Sloux City, Il minutes, third. A. Gardner, of Chicago, scratch, wen the time prize, making the race in 1:22th. Murphy had the time prize in his possession, but he forgot there was any prize of fered, and fell out near the finish. road for the first two miles from the start, forming

THE BODY OF GEORGE INNESS ARRIVES.

On the Anchor line steamship Anchoria, which arrived here yesterday afternoon, was the body of George Inness, the well-known American landscape artist. There will be a public funeral on Thursday at 10:39 o'clock a. m. in the Academy of Design. When Alexander H. Wyant died, eighteen months ago, his funeral was held there. The dead artist was a believer in the Swedenborgian faith, and the funeral services will probably be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ager, of Brooklyn. Mr. Inness died at the Royal Hotel, Bridge of Alian, in Scotland. For several years he had not been in good health, and his trip abroad was undertaken for the purpose of building it up. While living at Montclair, N. J., he frequently gave way to fits of depression and melancholy, rouch to the alarm of his friends. When Mr. Inness went abroad he was accompanied by his wife, and she was with him during his last illness. Mrs. Inness was seen by a Tribune reporter when the Anchoria arrived at her dock late yesterday after. Inness was seen by a Tribune reporter when the Anchoria arrived at new facts the yessendy affected for talk. Her son met her as she came down the gangplank, and as soon as the Custom House officials had examined her trunks they both started for Montclair. An undertaker took charge of the body, and it was removed to his establishment, where it will remain until to-morrow. Then it will be taken to the Academy of Design.

CROWDS GAZE AT THE BURNED SHIP. A curious crowd gathered at Pier 19, East River, yesterday, and looked at the burned ship General Knox, as she lay at her dock, still heeled over by the water in her hold. The tug Hustler, of the Chapman Wrecking Company, was alongside, and her powerful engines were pumping out of the Gen-eral Knox the tons of water which had been poured The water had been so far reduced that the main deck of the ship was clear. The work of the flames could clearly be seen. Every beam and brace in the vessel has been destroyed, and how the masts stand is a mystery. That the clipper will ever be fit for anything but a coal barge is not Captain Libby attributed the fire to spontaneous combustion. Besides the oil stowed in the hold, there was a long of creosote, and this, he imagined, was the cause of the fire. There had been no fire allowed between decks since they began t ship their cargo, and no smoking had been permitted in any part of the vessel. The General Knox is probably damaged to the extent of $75,000. The cargo is completely destroyed, and while no official estimate of the loss has been made it will possibly reach $100,000.

ARE THE BALLET GIRLS "REAL ANGRY ?"

Eight women met in Clarendon Hall yesterday and said that they were the Coryphees' Protective Union. Only one man was admitted. He said afterward that his name was George W. Lloyd, and that although the coryphees were three hours in session they did absolutely nothing. It was ascertained afterward, though, that they had sent a communication through their president, Mrs. Sicommunication through their president, Mrs. Signist, to the Central Labor Union, asking for admittance to the union. Mrs. Signist said after the meeting that the coryphees had been so misprepresented in the newspapers that they positively would refuse to give any information to anybody, but added that they would meet next Wednesday at the same place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Lloyd said that the girls felt that they had been misused by the newspapers, and under no circumstances would give the reporters any more information; in fact, would boycott them. The coryphees, he added, were real angry.

Father O'Donnell, pastor of St. Joseph's Romas

Catholic Church, Newark, came from Hackensack last April to succeed the late Father Toomey. He was dissatisfied with the choir music, which he thought was too high class. The choir was under the direction of Miss Kate Lynch, who had been the organist for twelve years. Recently Father O'Donnell appointed Mrs. Worcester, who had been his organist at Heckensuck. She will take charge in September, and Miss Lynch will be organist at St. Bridget's Church. The change has caused much dissatisfaction in St. Joseph's Church. Father O'Donnell is understood to be in favor of simple music for the choir, preferring the old Gregorian tones. Patrolman Allison, of the Faurth Precinct, was assaulted and knocked down at 1 a. m. yesterday by two men who sprang upon him in Boyd-st. and struck him several blows on the heat. THIS DOG GOT RID OF HIS RIVALS IN AN INGENIOUS WAY.

MR. PATTERSON, WHO OWNS HIM, SAYS HE INVEIGLED THE OTHER DOGS ON THE

TRAINS, AND THE WRETCH SHOWED NO REMORSE FOR

A blue melton setter, owned by James Patterson, who has a house at Nutley, N. J., recently dis-played such phenomenal and fatal sagacity in disposing of canine rivals in the affections of the household that Mr. Patterson has sent him away. The dog is affectionate, morbidly jealous, and, as he owner's statement would show, of wonderful intelligence, combined with an utter lack of moral principle. His first rival was a bright fox terrier. The setter resented the intrusion of this stranger, and showed his displeasure in several ways. He repulsed all attempts at play by the terrier, and was greatly distressed when any member of the family noticed or caressed the terrier.

The Paterson branch of the Eric Railroad runs through a cut at Nutley, a short distance from Mr. Patterson's house. There is a grade crossing at Nutley-ave. One day, not long after the arrival of the fox terrier, the setter suddenly became friendly with the terrier, and the two dogs scampered off along Nutley-ave, toward the railroad track. The setter shortly afterward returned home friendly with the terrier, and the two dogs scampered off along Nutley-ave, toward the railroad track. The setter shortly afterward returned home alone. He seemed to be rejoiced, and frisked about in a way entirely different from his dejected demeanor since his rival's appearance. Mr. Patterson missed the fox terrier when he got home in the early afternoon, and started out to search for him. He was told that the dog's dead body lay beside the railroad track near the crossing. He investigated the accident, and to his astonishment learned from an eye-witness that the setter and terrier were playing together on the tracks when a passenger train approached, and that the setter seized the terrier and held him on the track until the engine was close to him, and then bounded to one side, leaving his unfortunate rival to be slaughtered. The story seemed incredible, but it was told by an honest laborer, who apparently had no object in deception. When he got home Mr. Patterson regarded his setter with a new interest. The was full of liveliness and overflowing with affection. A month afterward a friend gave to Mr. Patterson a fine Newfoundland dog, and he took the animal to Nutley. The advent of the new stranger had an instantaneous effect on the setter, who refused to cat, and did not touch food for three days. He gradually reovered his appetite, but his liveliness was gone and he moped about the place. Mr. Patterson looked at the big size of the new acquisition, and reflected that if it were true that the setter had caused the death of the terrier in the way described, here was more dogmeat than the setter could handle. He was mistaken. One day the setter made up to the Newfoundland, and the latter reciprocated the friendly advances. The two dogs seemed to be on the best of terms for several days. Then the setter came frisking home one day, and a few hours afterward the family was informed that the Newfoundland dog had been killed on the railroad near the Nutley ave, crossing. Mr. Patterson found that the dog in the tra
